Williams Advanced Materials Strengthens Supply Chain Team

Buffalo, NY, September, 2010 – ASLON is pleased to announce the placement of Leo Nussenbaum as Director of Global Procurement for Williams Advanced Materials (WAM).

Headquartered in Buffalo, New York, WAM manufactures precious, non-precious and specialty metal products at its facilities in New York, California, Europe, Ireland and Asia. Major markets for WAM's products include magnetic and optical data storage, wireless telecommunications, semiconductor and photonics.

As Director of Global Procurement for WAM, Leo will be a part of the senior management team and work toward leveraging their manufacturing and innovation strategies to provide the highest value to their customers. In this position, Leo will play a critical role in the globalization of WAM's supply chain by focusing on purchasing and logistics more strategically and providing structure.

Leo grew up in Latin America and came to the US to study. After his graduation he began working for Xerox as a technical translator and was promoted several times. He most recently served as the Global Sourcing Manager Worldwide Purchasing for Carestream Health, the former Health Group of Eastman Kodak. Leo received his Bachelor of Arts from the State University of New York and his Master of Science from the Rochester Institute of Technology.
